Dear Bob,

My most memorable trip was to visit Beijing last summer vacation. The trip was three days in all.

On the first day, I visited the Forbidden City and the Great Wall. Standing on the Great Wall, I was shocked by the diligence and wisdom of the ancients. The next day, I visited Peking University and Tsinghua University, where I felt the strong academic atmosphere. On the last day, I watched the flag-raising ceremony. I also ate many delicious foods, such as Beijing Roast Duck.

It was really a pleasant trip. I strongly suggest you go to Beijing. You won't regret going there.

Yours,

Li Ming

Hello, everyone! In my view, space is worth exploring for we have benefited and will benefit a lot from it.

Firstly, it allows us to learn more about what is beyond the Earth. Secondly, the progress of space technology can promote the scientific and technological progress of the whole society, such as weather satellites, which have benefited people all over the world. Thirdly, with further space exploration, we may solve the population problem by moving to other planets one day.

The more we learn about the universe, the more we will benefit from it.

Dear schoolmates,

An exhibition of ancient Chinese inventions will be held in the science museum of our city this Friday.

The exhibition, which is made up of three parts: agriculture, transportation and medicine, will impress us with pictures, history records and modern technologies such as 3D. Anyone interested in it is welcome. But here are some basic rules to follow. Please do not take photos. And do not touch any works of art.

It's a good opportunity to have a bird's-eye view of ancient Chinese inventions and their powerful influences.
Please take the chance.

One possible version:

I decided that waiting wasn't going to work for me. When it was my turn, I marched up to the desk and told the lady my problem: I was only fourteen and didn't have a parent with me. It seemed to be working. She went and talked to the manager. After a few minutes, she handed me a ticket for the 7:00 flight to Omaha that was supposedly full. I was very grateful but knew that I had to make it to the gate quickly.

At 6:40 a.m. I boarded my final plane home. I normally would have been uncomfortable because I was right next to the bathroom, but to my surprise, I was excited. After the plane landed, I put my backpack on my shoulders proudly and marched off the plane and up to the exit gate to see my dad. He wanted all the details of how I managed to get home but I was too tired to even talk. All he needed to know was that I was home and did it by myself.

【写作提示】

Chelsea在亲人去世后悲伤过度，忽视了对女儿Tilly的关心。为了排解自己的孤独，Tilly恳请邻居带她一起去流浪狗收容所当志愿者。终于有一天，Tilly的行为引起了Chelsea的注意。根据续写第一段的首句可引出如下问题：邻居和Tilly去了什么地方？Tilly被母亲发现后有什么反应？邻居当时作何反应？根据续写第二段的首句可知，Chelsea询问Tilly来流浪狗收容所的原因。听了女儿的解释后，Chelsea有没有意识到自己的问题？她对Tilly说什么？母女俩最后从悲伤中走出来了吗？

One possible version:

Chelsea rode a taxi and followed them. Soon, the car stopped in front of an old house, which was a shelter for homeless dogs. Before Tilly and Mrs. Miles entered the shelter, Chelsea reached them. "Tilly," she said aloud from behind. Tilly turned back, scared at the sight of her mom. Looking at Tilly and her mother, Mrs. Miles soon realized that Tilly left each afternoon without asking for her mom's permission.

"What are you doing here?" Chelsea asked, staring at Tilly. After Tilly explained, Chelsea felt terrible for ignoring her daughter. "Sorry. I've been so selfish. I've been only concentrating on my own sadness," Chelsea cried, hugging Tilly. "From now on, let's face it together!" Tilly smiled. Knowing about the mother and daughter's story, Mrs. Miles helped them adopt a dog. After that day, Chelsea and Tilly slowly walked out of their sadness. And Chelsea learned a lesson: In the face of misfortune, we should move on.
